CFAM AND NCLA ASSESSMENTS DURING THE NEXT SCHOOL HOLIDAYS

I will be facilitating the abovementioned tests during the next school holidays. These tests are a requirement from the ACE National Office. Dr. Holman developed these tests and currently every ACE student between Gr. 1 and 9 is affected by these tests. The NCLA test used to be called the OBEST tests, which have been upgraded.

These are the same tests that were mentioned in Dr. Jacques Rosseau's article in the Accelerator of the 1st quarter of 2012 that were used to ascertain the ACE students' level of performance measured against the students in the State Edu Dept. in which it was proved that ACE students consistently score better than their counterparts at State schools.

These tests can also be used as an independent assessment of Home School students on the ACE program which is needed when parents apply for Registration for the next school phase from the Edu Dept. This means parents would then not have to do another assessment on their students in order to prove that the student is ready for the next school phase and also on the correct academic level.

These combined cost for these two tests are R150 per student. This will include my traveling costs, etc. as I will organize 4 venues through the Western Cape for these assessments in order for you not to have to travel excessive distances.

These tests will take place on the dates mentioned in this e mail. Further practical information will be shared via e mail closer to these dates.

You will notice that each student between GR. 1 – 9 has been billed for these tests on the Host Fee account that will be sent to you via e mail on Monday, 18 June 2012.

I have also attached information regarding these tests to you in this e mail. Please read through this information in order to put the students at rest as to the reason and information that will be tested.

I will also give more information at the Home Edu Days next week.

See you there !!!
